Catalogue 2025

The Roerich-Kolpidis family is honored to present the 2025 catalog of Ova ex Kalium — a distinguished collection of hand-blown crystal glass eggs crafted from the finest potassium-enriched and lead-free crystal glass. Each piece is realised to the highest standards of artistry, created with the same uncompromising excellence that defines Europe’s great glassmaking traditions.

As part of the Ex range of fine hand-blown crystal, Ova ex Kalium continues the grand tradition of European glass artistry while infusing it with a distinctive Ukrainian-Greek spirit. The collection draws inspiration from the heritage of legendary houses such as Moser, Baccarat, Lalique, and Daum, honoring their devotion to mastery while forging its own path in the art of crystal sculpture.

Every egg is conceived as more than an object: it is a symbol of pure refinement and transformation, bringing distinction to interiors and turning beautiful spaces into extraordinary ones. The design process pays homage to the ancient “gutta” glassblowing tradition, a technique whose roots reach back to the era of Kyivan Rus’, and which the Roerich-Kolpidis family has proudly nurtured for generations.

What sets Ova ex Kalium apart is the use of potash crystal, an eco-conscious alternative to traditional leaded crystal. Potash crystal unites exceptional brilliance, clarity, vibrant colors and acoustic resonance with a commitment to safety and sustainability. It reflects the Roerich-Kolpidis vision of honoring centuries-old techniques while embracing materials that meet the expectations of today's discerning and responsible luxury market.

Ova ex Kalium is made in Ukraine and forms part of the wider Ex range — a family of hand-blown, high-quality crystal creations produced by the Roerich-Kolpidis atelier. Beyond eggs, the team of fourteen Ukrainian master glassblowers continues this living tradition, crafting not only sculptural and decorative pieces but also finely made kitchenware, crystal spheres in various forms, and elegant vases — all executed with the same devotion to tradition and detail. By combining centuries-old methods with modern creativity, the atelier ensures that craftsmanship thrives even in challenging times, preserving both cultural heritage and artisanal livelihoods.

Under the leadership of HSH Michail Roerich-Kolpidis, the work has progressed from heritage into a modern commercial venture. Today, the Roerich Company oversees the continuation and international expansion of these traditions, building on the foundations laid by previous generations while introducing a clear vision for the future: to place Ukrainian craftsmanship on the global stage, to merge artistry with modern design innovation, and to create collectible crystal pieces that embody both cultural memory and contemporary relevance.

Guided by this vision, the Ova ex Kalium team collaborates with leading designers to ensure each timeless piece harmonizes with both classical and contemporary interiors. Special limited collections are created in partnership with distinguished brands and cultural events, offering truly unique editions for collectors and connoisseurs.

For over four decades the family has supported and sustained this rare artform, with a formal retail presence established in 1999, when Ergopan S.A. was founded in Greece by Nikolaos and Nina Kolpidi, grandparents of HSH Michail. This venture embodied their dedication to craftsmanship, heritage, and beauty, and laid the foundation for the family's enduring role in the European art glass tradition. Its continuation under the leadership of HSH Michail, through the Roerich Company, marks the next stage of this journey — uniting legacy with vision, heritage with innovation, and art with commerce.

Each piece is more than crystal — it is an elegant testament to resilience, artistry, and the enduring spirit of European glassmaking.
